200,000 Visitors Are Expected to Attend Inauguration Rites

Upwards of 75,000 Spectators Expected to Watch Parade of 10,000 Uniformed Citizens Outpouring Since Wilson's Inauguration.

Washington, March 3 (AP).—With a cheer on its lips and a prayer of transcendent hope in its heart, the nation turned its capital city into one vast parade ground today as it prepared to welcome a new chief executive amid inaugural tumult unmatched in many years.

In tens of thousands, and from every state, fellow-citizens of Franklin D. Roosevelt were pouring into Washington to see him take up at noon tomorrow the duties of that high office in which Herbert Hoover today was spending his last full working day.

But the death of Thomas J. Walsh touched the hearts of high and low alike, injecting a somber note into the atmosphere of gaiety.

Although the main functions of the inauguration were unchanged, the Roosevelt decided not to participate in any of the purely social activities.

Bring Own Bands

Many of the incoming delegations brought their bands and cheering sections with them. Under a clouded sky—which the weather bureau said would clear by morning—they made holiday along downtown streets, decked with a blazing display of flags and bunting. In groups and troops they took in the sights of Washington.

Hundreds gathered to catch a glimpse of the president-elect—newly arrived overnight from New York—on his way from his temporary quarters at the Mayflower Hotel to the White House, a half-dozen blocks away, to pay the customary call of courtesy on Mr. Hoover.

Others gathered in knots about the White House itself, where the outgoing chief executive went patiently ahead with the last of those gigantic tasks to which he had given so many weary hours since he himself was the central figure of a great day four years ago.

Still others tried to crowd into house and senate galleries, to watch the dying efforts of the last of the "lame duck" congresses, still in a tangle of uncompleted legislation as the adjournment hour of tomorrow noon approached.

Many of the states sent their chief citizens. Governors were, for once, almost as plentiful as senators on the streets. Political leaders of the first caliber held interstate conferences in hotel rooms. And in the crowds, too, were farmers and merchants, bankers and laborers, and the inevitable red Indians in buckskins.

Not since Woodrow Wilson marched to the White House just twenty years ago, at the head of a victorious Democracy, had Washington seen such an inaugural outpouring.

Hotels Are Full.

Every hotel was overflowing. In the trim white reviewing stands lining Pennsylvania avenue, scarcely a seat remained unsold, although the price ranged up to $7 for the choice tickets, and scores of shopkeepers along the parade route were filling up their tills from sale of window-space.

As saw and hammer completed the work of preparation, and new banners were broken out above the promenade crowds, the old capital had something of the air of a boom town of other days. City officials estimated that 200,000 visitors would be here by tomorrow, and that upwards of 75,000 would be in the reviewing stands watching another 10,000 march, while many thousands more looked for standing room on the sidewalks.

Washington Mourns Death Of T. J. Walsh, Pays Tribute to Bride

Washington, March 3 (AP).—Official Washington today bowed low in sorrowing tribute to Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, and to his widow—a bride of last week—Senator Nieves Perez Chaumont Walsh of Cuba.

As high and low of the city and nation called to express condolences to Mr. Walsh, members of the family were undecided whether there should be a state funeral from the Senate chamber in which he served upward of 20 years.

Mrs. Walsh, under a physician's care, rested with her grief in the apartment the senator occupied for so many years in the capital, at fashionable 1661 Crescent place.

Congressional leaders were among the first to extend their sympathy. President-elect and Mrs. Roosevelt, the hour of noon to add their tribute by a personal call on the widow.

Only a few days ago, Mr. Roosevelt announced that the veteran Montanan, who died suddenly yesterday on a train en route from Florida to Washington, would be the attorney general in his cabinet.

As a mark of respect, the social program of the incoming Chief Executive and first lady will be curtailed.

Dairy League Retires Certificates 60 Days Before They Are Due

New York, March 3.—Readiness of the Dairyman's League Cooperative Association, Inc., to retire immediately at par and interest to date of maturity its BB Certificates of Indebtedness due May 1, was announced today by Chester Young, treasurer.

"The conservative and sound financial policy of the Dairyman's League Cooperative Association," said Mr. Young, "places the organization in a strong financial position that makes possible the discharge of these obligations two months before due."

The original amount of the BB Certificate issue was $2,573,246, Mr. Young explained. The association has reduced this total by purchasing back its securities so that the total now outstanding is $1,162,870 plus $69,855 of interest due at time of maturity, May 1.

Decision to retire these securities 60 days in advance at par and interest to May 1, said Mr. Young, was made by the Board of Directors because of the pressing need among farmers for cash. This is the second time the association has adopted this course, he added, having done the same thing last year.

"Farmers are hard pressed for money with which to pay taxes, buy seed and fertilizer and otherwise get their spring work under way," said Mr. Young. "With milk prices at the lowest level in more than half a century, many farmers are in dire circumstances and we believe distribution of this money will be a distinct help."

POPE CALLS FOR HOLY HOUR ON APRIL 6

Vatican City, March 3 (AP).—Pope Pius today called upon the world to observe a holy hour April 6 of expiatory prayer on the nineteenth hundredth anniversary of Christ's agony in the Garden of Gethsemane "so all souls may be lifted in union toward God, thus inducing pacification of the peoples and alleviation of the evils created by the crisis."

The Pope himself will descend to St. Peter's to venerate the sacrament of the hour.

Eaters Last Day

Washington, March 3 (AP).—Henry Morgenthau, Jr., of New York, new chairman of the Federal Farm Board, announced today that his first objective when he assumes office Monday, will be to "take the government out of the stabilization business."

He plans to overhaul government agricultural credit activities, getting an organization of four divisions with responsibility of each centered in one individual.

The present farm board set-up will be scrapped. In making loans to farm cooperatives are to be centered in one division under a new to be appointed by the President, who will replace the membership of the present board.

The reorganization, soon to be effected, necessitates resignation of six board members. C. B. Deannan, of Missouri; Carl Williams, of Oklahoma; William F. Schilling, of Minnesota; Charles S. Wilson, of New York; Sam H. Thompson, of Illinois; and Frank Evans, of Utah.

Commission Orders Modifications for Ellenville Rates

Public Service Commission Requires Ellenville Electric Company to Amend Rate Schedule Concerning Connected Loads of Customers Whose Demands Are Not Metered.

Albany, March 2.—An order of the Public Service Commission requiring the Ellenville Electric Company to make modification in its rate schedules has been amended by the Commission so as to abrogate a requirement that the company determine the demands of those whose demands are not metered on the basis of 70 per cent of the connected load instead of 80 per cent. This company serves the village of Ellenville in Ulster county.

The company had formerly been determining the demand of customers whose demands are not metered at 80 per cent of their connected load, and the order of the Commission passed last November required that this practice be changed so that demands of such customers would be figured at 70 per cent of their connected load. The abrogation of that requirement again permits the company to figure demands at 80 per cent of connected load for customers whose demands are not metered.

This change in the order followed a rehearing which the Commission held at the request of the company and at which this provision of the previous order was considered. The change will apply to relatively few customers. It was shown from a study of comparative results of determining the demand of actual metering and by estimate that installations of the general kind in this company's territory will run at least 80 per cent, even on the basis of monthly determination (by meter) limited by a 75 per cent ratchet in the schedule, and that 80 per cent which was set in the first place gives full credit to the monthly variation of occasional drops, and that the annual maximum for installation is bound to be considerably greater.

In a report approved by the Commission recommending the granting of the company's request to retain the 80 per cent demand factor for commercial customers, and abrogating that part of its previous order, which required the 70 per cent demand factor, the following appears: "Based on the 1931 figures the change from 80 per cent to 70 per cent would reduce the revenue from 66 unmetered customers $325.12 per year. It appears clear, however, that the company could and would avoid most of this reduction by installing meters for the customers affected. The net result would be merely an increase in expense and fixed capital and no reduction to customers."

Rainey, Speaker Of House, To Curb Power

Washington, March 3 (AP).—The next speaker of the House—Representative Rainey of Illinois—today made plans for directing that high office of much of its power and giving it to the Democratic majority.

A steering committee is to be formed. Rainey announced last night, soon after his nomination in caucus, which henceforth will shape the policies of the House.

"Our failures in the 72nd Congress, what few there have been, have been due entirely to the fact that the direction of policies has come entirely from the speaker's chair," he said. "From now on it will come from the Democratic party."

Rainey, white-haired, 73-year-old veteran in the House, will succeed John N. Garner, the vice president-elect. He was chosen over Representative McDuffie of Alabama, Rankin of Mississippi, Jones of Texas, and Bankhead of Alabama. Nomination is tantamount to election. Representative Ryans of Tennessee was selected as floor leader—the post held by Rainey.

The steering committee assures solidarity of the party in support of President Roosevelt. Rainey continued: "I will support President Roosevelt to the limit. Whatever the Roosevelt program is, we are going to carry it out and no more. If necessary we will only organize committees to deal with the program."

FEDERAL AGENTS MADE 4 ARRESTS ON THURSDAY

The Kingston prohibition office reports arrests in four and seizures in five places in Nyack Thursday. Wet goods seized included alleged Scotch, apple and rye whiskey, gin, beer, wine and home brew. All arrests were under warrants and defendants were held for arraignment before Commissioner Northrop in Newburgh on charges of possession.

They were: 12 South Franklin street, Raymond Shields; 33 South Franklin street, Louis T. Alfaro; 2 Bridge street, John Renella; 40 South Broadway, Community Club; no arrests; 16 Park street, John Sabo.

Jehol City in Chaos; Japs Continue Their Drive in Blizzard

Chinchow, Manchuria, March 3 (AP).—A picture of utter collapse of what is left of China's hold on Jehol province, with its troops revolting and leader's fleeing, was brought today to this Japanese headquarters in military and press dispatches.

Maj. Gen. Tadashi Kawahara, continuing the Japanese advance on Jehol city after capturing Pinghuang, only 60 miles eastward this morning, asserted that the capital's fall was only a matter of hours.

Despite a blizzard, his troops relentlessly continued their drive while Japanese reports said Chinese troops in Jehol city have fled and that the city was in chaos.

General Tang Yu-lin, Governor of Jehol, is missing, and Chang Tso-Hsiang and Wan Fu-lin, sent to Jehol by Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang, North China war lord, to command the defense suddenly departed for Peiping in defiance of orders, these reports said.

Despite the snow, two Japanese airplanes were reported to have scouted the capital and confirmed reports that troops were pouring through the city, many heading for the passes in the Great Wall to China proper.

23 States Now Limit Bank Withdrawals as Protective Measure

Action Ranges From Holidays, Mandatory or Optional, to Legislation Giving Banks Power to Limit Withdrawals.

(By The Associated Press)

Twenty-three states have now taken protective steps of one sort or another in regard to banks and their depositors.

Action ranged from holidays, mandatory or optional, to legislation giving banks power to limit withdrawals if they deemed it necessary.

Holidays of varying duration were declared yesterday or early today in eight states—Texas, Washington, State, Oregon, Idaho, Arizona, Nevada, Utah and Wisconsin.

At Washington, where President-elect Roosevelt is preparing to put his hand to the helm of state and President Hoover is getting ready to relinquish it, the situation was receiving close attention.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, after conferring with Mr. Roosevelt at the head of a delegation of Democratic senators, said last night, "A definite statement on the banking situation and other matters will be forthcoming in the near future."

In authoritative quarters it was reported President Hoover was ready either to issue a statement or send a message to Congress centering on banking conditions and remedies.

In the great money centers of New York and Chicago, as well as in other sections, banking business went on untroubled by difficulties elsewhere. In many of the states where holidays were declared or restrictive action taken, officials said their banks were sound, but must be protected against withdrawals and repercussions from other sections.

BOY ON BICYCLE RAN INTO REAR OF MILK TRUCK HERE

Peter Scheid, 14, of Wrentham street, was injured about the shoulder and cut about the face over the right eye shortly after 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon when he ran his bicycle into the rear of the parked milk truck of Pratt Police at Foxhall avenue and Albany avenue. Anton Scheid, driver of the truck, in reporting the accident to the police stated he had parked the truck while delivering milk as Scheid, riding a bicycle, came along. Scheid evidently did not see the truck and ran into the rear of it.

Authorities Contradiction.

Washington, March 3 (AP).—After a conference with his administration's financial leaders, President Hoover today authorized a contradiction of reports that he intended to issue before nightfall a statement relative to banking and business conditions.

Congressional Probe Of Public Utilities

Washington, March 3 (AP).—A congressional investigation of public utility holding companies in the next congress was assured today by senate approval of a house resolution.

The resolution offered by Senator Barkley (D., Ky.) and speedily agreed to, provides that members of the senate and house interstate commerce committees together shall continue the investigation begun by the house committee during the present congress.

The purpose of the inquiry is given as "obtaining information necessary as a basis for legislation." The committee will have full power to subpoena witnesses and is authorized to investigate the control and financing of interstate public utility corporations, except railroads.

Who Said Taxpayers Would Pay for Light Used by the Circus?

The Cub Reporter strolled into the corner grocery Thursday afternoon to join the circle of "sitters" who gather there about the stove and discuss the weighty problems of the city, state and nation. The Japanese-Chinese situation had been disposed of when a new-comer joined the circle. The topic of the firemen-circus dispute finally came before the meeting and was in full swing when a stranger happened along.

This stranger immediately injected a new idea into the discussion by his positive assertion as to what the trouble was and who was to blame. Many sides of the controversy have been presented and numerous solutions have been offered. Some feel that the firemen are right and others that the circus is right. The stranger was all for the circus. His contention of the facts was that the controversy was provoked by failure of local people to live up to promises. Professing to know, he said the whole matter was a disgrace.

The use of the army had been donated for the circus and even the lightning bill was to be free. He failed to state who had promised to donate the army free but stated that the lightning had been wired to the city meter and the city was to pay that charge but now certain members of the firemen's committee were presenting a large bill for army rent and a very substantial bill for electric lighting.

Just who in authority agreed to donate the army rent free was not stated by the stranger nor did he mention what city official in authority had promised that the taxpayers of the city would stand for the lighting bill in order to relieve a private enterprise like a circus from paying its share of a lighting bill.

The opinion of some of the "sitters" about the stove was that the taxpayers of Kingston have enough to contend with without paying any share of a lighting bill for a circus or any other private enterprise.

While argument was still waxing warm a well known attorney in town happened to make a purchase and suggested that a good idea would be to try the matter out in court some day instead of spending time in argument, oratory and wrangling.

Perhaps now that some of the circus people apparently are stranded and evidently unemployed some arrangement might be made to make a settlement by paying off the actors with the new "unemployed scrip" which it is proposed to issue.

The Cub Reporter advised the circle that it would be poor policy to pay up with fleece-lined flannel money at this time since flannel money was bound to shrink, especially if the country should go wet. With that advice the Cub Reporter slipped quietly out from the circle and went out again into the street.

Circus Promoter Is Under Arrest

Arrested Here Late Thursday Afternoon on a Warrant Sworn Out by His Wife in Woodbridge, N. J., Charging Knight With Desecration—Out on Bail.

Herbert Knight, promoter of the indoor circus held last week at the old armory, was arrested by the Kingston police about 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the request of the district attorney of New Brunswick, N. J., who stated that Knight was wanted by the police in Woodbridge, N. J., on a warrant sworn out four years ago by his wife, charging her husband with deserting her young son and herself.

Knight was arraigned before Judge Culliton later in the afternoon and was represented by the law firm of Flaungan and Kaecher and Judge Culliton stated at that time that bail would have to be fixed by the county judge. County Judge Frederick G. Traver fixed the amount of bail at $1,500 which was furnished by William Pintard and William Clark.

According to information received by the local police the authorities have been seeking Knight for four years, but when they would learn where he had been located it was only to find that he had left a few days before they received the information.

If it had not been for the financial tangle between the indoor circus people and the local volunteer firemen the financial affairs of the circus would have been straightened up earlier in the week and Knight would have left town.

'Quake and Tidal Waves Kill Over 1,200 In Japan

Latest Reports From Stricken Sections Place the Dead at 1,238—Earthquake, Wave and Fire Destroy 7,930 Homes—Wave Carried To Sea or Destroyed 1,570 Small Boats—Scores of Towns Submerged—Damage Will Reach Millions.

Tokyo, March 3 (AP).—More than 1,200 persons are known to have been killed in the earthquake, tidal wave and fire which devastated a section of the northeastern seaboard of Honshu Island, largest of the Japanese Archipelago, early this morning.

The full extent of the casualties had not been determined at 11 o'clock tonight, but the governor of the Province of Iwate, which suffered most heavily, reported that 1,119 lives had been lost in Iwate alone, mostly north of Miyako, a seacoast town of 300 miles northeast of Tokyo.

The total number of dead rose to 1,238 with reports from the provinces of Miyagi, Aomori and Hokkaido. Miyagi is on the east coast south of Iwate Province. Aomori is the province at the northern end of Honshu Island. Hokkaido is a small island north of Honshu.

It was estimated that the epicenter of the earthquake was 125 miles southeast of Kinkazan Island, which would place it at a spot in the sea about 120 miles northeast of Tokyo.

Reports from the provinces most seriously affected said that 7,930 homes had been destroyed by the earthquake and the tidal wave and fire which followed. The tidal wave carried to sea or destroyed 1,570 small boats.

Damage was expected to total millions of dollars. More than 1,200 persons were reported injured and thousands of fisher folk lost their boats and nets—their means of livelihood.

The earthquake drove terrorized populations of a hundred communities to the chill streets in the dark when electric currents failed.

Then followed a terrifying interval of about 40 minutes punctuated by alarm gongs and cries of "Otsunamii"—meaning the tidal wave. Rushing to hills, a majority escaped the big wave.

Miyako reported successive waves, each hungrily devouring houses and boats. There were no American or other foreign victims reported.

The steamer Empress of Britain was at Kobe, outside the disaster zone.

Heavy snow began to fall later today in the stricken area compelling relief planes to turn back. Five destroyers, carrying doctors and medical and relief supplies, arrived off stricken ports.

The director-general of Tokyo's Central Seismological Observatory believed the earthquake was worse at its epicenter than the 1923 earthquake, which caused the destruction of Yokohama and the deaths of more than 140,000 persons.

The epicenter of the quake which occurred at 2:32 a. m. and lasted upwards of 10 minutes was 125 miles southeast of Kinkazan cape. The tidal wave followed in from 40 minutes to a little more than an hour later, reports along the coast said.

Same Region Hit in 1896

It is the same region where a tidal wave in 1896 took 30,000 lives. Scores of towns were submerged by today's disaster. Communication was severed with a large section, preventing reports for the time being.

Only slight damage was caused in Tokyo and the southern part of Honshu, the main island. A 300-mile stretch of northern Honshu was left in ruins. The quake and tidal wave also struck 200 miles farther north on the coast of Hokkaido or Vezo Island, but no excessive damage was reported.

The experience of previous quakes and tidal waves forewarned many and possibly saved thousands of lives. Villagers started a flight to hills immediately after the first jar of the earthquake.

Fires started by the quake swept unchecked as these canny Japanese fled in the darkness. But hundreds of their neighbors and relatives, failing to remember the historic warning, waited too long to save belongings and were killed or injured.

The wave was estimated at various points to be from four to ten feet high.

Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies, veteran Republican leader of the New York Assembly, today said that he was not a party to the purported agreement which was said to have been reached earlier in the week by Democratic and Republican leaders in the legislature.

Speaker McGinnies said that his position was the same now as it has been since the submission of the Repeal Amendment for ratification. He said that he had not agreed on the number of delegates and that the number which the Democrats favor is not satisfactory to him.

Population Policy

When we get out of this business slump, with our immediate problems solved in ways more or less satisfactory for the time being, we shall probably find that our next task is to form a population policy.

Strangely enough, we have never had any definite plan of this sort. We took population as it came, native and foreign, expecting that sooner or later we would fill up the continent and be rather crowded, but never analyzing the problem very clearly. Until shortly before the war we admitted nearly all who wanted to come. Since the war, immigration has been so severely restricted that it is almost zero. Meanwhile our native increase from reproduction is slowing down and statisticians are forecasting a stationary population of around 165,000,000, or even the beginning of a decline, by 1975.

A country of this size, resources and variety with 165,000,000 people would be a very different place from such a country with 200,000,000 to 250,000,000, which would have been the expectation from pre-war rates of growth. Our own birth rate will probably follow its natural course, toward stability, ignoring artificial efforts at control. We can easily get all the increase we want, however, at any time, simply by letting down the immigration bars again. It is a question of what we want.

What kind of people, then, do we want? Where and how do we want them to live? What kinds of work are we going to have for them? What are we going to train them for? Figuring our resources and our requirements, with the world to pick from, we might do almost anything on this continent hereafter— if we had a wise plan.

RETURN TO DUTY

There have been troubled times before now, and troubled individuals. In one such period Robert Louis Stevenson, writing from his home in Samoa to a friend in England, said: "The world must return some day to the world duty, and be done with the word reward. There are no rewards, and plenty of duties. And the sooner a man sees that and acts upon it like a gentleman or a fine old barbarian, the better for himself."

A return to duty would be a wholesome step for any public servant who has neglected it for power and personal profit. It would be wholesome for any leaders in business, industrial or professional life who have come to regard duty as an old-fashioned notion, and material success by whatever means as the highest ambition. It would be wholesome right on down the line for everyone, including Mr. Average Citizen who shrinks his civic duty, leaving government to the politicians.

And there are rewards, though not perhaps the ones we have been accustomed to expecting. There are the rewards of self-respect, the respect of one's fellow-men and satisfaction in honest achievement for the public good.

BLIGHTED SPOTS

The blight which comes upon all cities sooner or later, in spots, is more evident than usual now, and growing worse. Some areas go dead even while property around them is thriving. They turn to slums if in or near the business section, and into weed-grown, rubbish-laden, bill-board-covered stretches of vacant land if on the outskirts. These areas which will not support themselves. They neither pay the owners their carrying charges nor do they render any service to the community.

The downtown plague-spots are worst, because they have usually been prosperous and have then deteriorated. For the outer edges there is often more hope.

When the depression wave passes, however, a business writer, there will price.

he such blighted areas also left in the country at large. He suggests, as likely fields for such decadence, agricultural and mining regions. The blighted farm regions would be of marginal fertility or lacking transportation. The blighted mining regions would probably include coal, particularly, along with silver and copper, old iron and old fields, etc.

There are signs of something being done for the dead spots in cities, through public and private projects for rebuilding slums. For the others, generally speaking, not much can be done except reforestation.

SENATE FOR WATERWAY

At last favorable action begins on the St. Lawrence Waterway treaty. The pact was approved, 15 to 5, by a vote of the Senate foreign relations committee on Washington's birthday. Probably the Father of his Country, if he were living, would have rejoiced in this action; he was always an enthusiast for internal waterways.

Formal action by the Senate as a whole will have to wait at least until the special session beginning on March 4, in order to give the senators all the time they need for talking. Presumably their oratory will not affect the result adversely. It looks like a strategic time for such procedure. Nothing will contribute more to improving the current national psychology than definite action along constructive lines, looking to a bigger and better future.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

BY James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)

STRENGTHENING THE HEART

You may be lying down resting and putting your index and middle fingers on your wrist on the thumb side you feel your pulse beating regularly at 68 to 72 beats to the minute.

You rise to your feet and are surprised to find that the heart rate has increased by nearly 50 per cent, beating perhaps as high as 100 beats to the minute. Naturally you expect the rate to increase when you stand up, as the heart has a harder job pumping blood when you are standing than when you are lying down on the level. This is because the heart does not have to pump the blood upwards to the upper part of the body, and away down to the feet with enough power to bring it upwards all the way back to the heart again.

In the average person, arising from the lying down to the standing position increases the rate of the heart beat by 8 to 10 beats in the minute.

What has made your heart beat so fast with such a little effort? Have you heart disease?

As a matter of fact you are likely in poor condition physically, and need some toning up.

Dr. W. Allan, Charlotte, N. C., reports 27 patients in which the heart rate increased an average of 35 beats on simply arising from a reclining position; in 25 the systolic pressure (with arm band tightly inflated) fell and in 26 the diastolic pressure (with arm band not inflated) rose, the difference between the two pressures being only 18 instead of about 40, the normal difference.

None of these patients showed any murmurs (leakage) or any enlargement of the heart.

Should these cases be given digitalis to slow the heart and advised to rest as much as possible?

No! Dr. Allan advises that if the tone of the heart and blood vessels is to be relaxed it is necessary to feed the patient well and to restore the tone to the muscle by graduated daily exercise.

I believe most physicians will agree with Dr. Allan.

Exercise such as walking or simple calisthenics, calls upon the heart to send more blood regularly and rhythmically to distant parts of the body thus building up the power of the heart muscle, and the muscles of the blood vessels.

ITALY REGRETS TWO YEAR TRADE WITH SOVIET RUSSIA.

Rome (AP)—Italy's two-year experiment of trading with Soviet Russia had ended in regret and a determination not to renew it.

Her decision to denounce the preferential duties section of the commercial treaty of 1924 and her refusal to renew the trade agreement are definite expressions of dissatisfaction over the fact that—

Russia got the lion's share of the trading, and Italy is left holding the bag with half a billion lire promissory notes.

In the two-year experiment Russia bought machinery, dyes, ships, airplanes, motors, tractors, marble, and other goods brought back Soviet grain, oil, manganese, iron, steel and lumber.

At the end of the first year Italy found she had imported $29,000,000 worth and sold $14,000,000. In the second year the adverse balance was cut to $5,000,000.

Moreover Italy paid largely in cash. The Soviets paid mostly in credit, running from 9 months to 22 months. Most of this paper is still unliquidated, since the Bank of Italy will not redempt it. The notes that have expired have been promptly paid. But the accumulation of paper when they want cash annoys the manufacturers.

Lastly the Soviet purchasing agents came to Italy and bargained with Italian manufacturers as competitors. The Italian purchasing agents could buy only through the Moscow government and at set prices.

VALIANT DUST

by Percival Christopher Wren

"I don't call it even that, my son! A far, far worse ill than that befall! The last pale English girl, your wife, faded and aspired Ralsul, our master, Ralsul, in the hollow of whose hand lie the fortunes of your father and yourself and me."

"What?" cried Jules, suddenly sitting upright on the divan.

"Yes, you may well ask. Now you are taking some notice of what I say. Through your drinking this befall. Had you been with your wife, as you should have been, it would never have happened. Not only did she insult and anger and thwart Ralsul, she actually threatened him."

"What, think you, is the fate of those, and of the family of those, who thus offend great powerful sheikhs and kais and sultans?"

"What happened?" asked Jules Malgail.

"Oh, you know what Ralsul is. Can't leave any girl alone. Not that they want him to leave them alone. That Sara! You keep her out of Ralsul's way."

Jules Malgail laughed.

"He's a great lad," he said again. "Yes, and he'll be a great sultan some day—and you can be a great prime minister, vizier, chief councillor."

"Keeper of the king's conscience—and treasury—what?" laughed Jules.

"... yes, Governor of a great Province, a fat province, yielding twice the taxes that the governor has to send to the treasury," continued El Isa Beth el Ain. "All dependent on the countenance and favor of this Ralsul—some day. And meantime, your wife must quarrel with him, insult him, threaten him. Would you believe that she came and asked me to lend her a knife to stick in him? Think of it!"

"But what happened?"

"Why a certain fool got drunk in front of the man whose respect he should keep. Got so drunk and incapable that his own father said it would be wrong to take him to his wife's apartment and let her behold his shame. Thus was his wife left alone with none to protect her, or to give her good counsel, or to keep her out of mischief. So she got into mischief. She insulted and angered and threatened her husband's patron and employer, the source of his wealth, his honor and his future greatness."

"Will you tell me what happened, before I—?"

"I am telling you. The fool's wife—a far bigger fool—ungrateful of her husband's happiness and welfare, behaved according to her folly."

"I suppose you mean young Ralsul went to give her a consoling good-night kiss, and overdid it, and got his face smacked?"

"It is all very well to put it like that. It's all very well to make little of it, but it's a very serious matter—as you'll find out, my son. All very well to say, with a laugh, that Ralsul got his face smacked; but people of Ralsul's sort don't like having their faces smacked, and they are apt to return a smack with a thrust—or a knife, or with a blow—or a bullet, or with a jerk—or a noose."

"Mordid! Old-fashioned! Victorian!" laughed Jules.

"So don't get drunk again, my son," continued his mother, "or if you must, that your wife is in a safe place—where she cannot cause mischief and danger."

"(It's news to me, my mother, that Margaret is much of a mischief-maker, or given to pursuing young men and leading them on, for the fun of turning them down—at the psychological moment.)"

"I did not say that your wife pursued Ralsul. Do not put false accusations against your wife into my mouth, my son. I did not say that she led him on. I said that she insulted and enraged him. I said that she threatened him."

"Threatened to do what?"

"She threatened to shoot him."

"To shoot him? What for?"

"What for? To get her husband, and her husband's father and mother put to death, I should think. What do you suppose would be the result of Zainub's hearing of the mere threat—the threat to kill her again? And here, when you are back again, and Zainub's tears and suspicions dead, your own wife threatens to kill Ralsul. To kill her son Ralsul, whose heir you are!"

of thoughts which will make our minds like the throne room of a king.

Prayer: We beseech Thee, Who reveal Thyself in the true, the honest, the pure and the lovely, to help us make our minds Thy audience chamber. Forgive us our foolish and wandering thoughts. Feed our minds with Thy truth, and guide our thoughts in Thy paths. We ask it all in His name in Whose mind Thy truth shone unshadowed. Amen.

THINK ON THESE THINGS

What a noble company to which our minds may be hosts the Apostle names: the true, the honest, the just, the pure, the lovely and all those tested things which are well spoken of. Such thoughts as these are always waiting to be entertained; the true in every intellectual inquiry, the honest in every business transaction, the pure in every exercise of desire and imagination, the lovely as we contemplate the ways of nature and the deeds and characters of men. We may be poor in possession and simple in our ways of life, but we can entertain a company of

of thoughts which will make our minds like the throne room of a king.

Republican Spain Is Hearty.
Madrid (AP)—Madrid is eating about 7 per cent more under the republic than the monarchy, say official figures. The 1932 totals include 750,000,000 pounds of bread, 220,000,000 pounds of vegetables, 30,000,000 pounds of meat, 125,000,000 of fish, 3,000,000 chickens and 400,000 rabbits. More than 35,000,000 pounds of oil were used in cooking these foods.

Leningrad (AP)—Cucumbers and radishes grown under glass for phosphate miners beyond the Arctic circle is the latest soviet enterprise in the far north.

Up on the Kola peninsula bordering the White sea a dairy and vegetable state farm is supplying the tables of Khibinogorsk, center of important apatite deposits. The farm this year will cultivate 675 acres and will grow salad material in two hothouses and 100 hot-beds.

Matters not to what we turn, that business is in the red. And he when he beheld these tidings, he became blue, for he was already yellow.

Waiter—Sorry, but we have no milk. Will it be all right without cream?

the dining room table still is consid-

The trouble with golf is that a man can't complain if his wife buys a new hat just as often as he buys a dozen golf balls.

Father took his little son to the eggs hatch. Said dad impressively:

Dad—Isn't it wonderful, son, how the little chicks get out of the shell?
Son—Huh? What gets me is how they get in there.

An evangelist estimates that it

Maybe Uncle Sam got a bargain after all, when he saved Europe.

Asked if he ever tried sleeping on

Hal—Don't be foolish.
Zeb—I'm not. He drowned.

Pride is a weed that sometimes chokes the choicest flowers in the human heart.

"When a woman sheds tears," says

she is 'sobbing,' but when a man

Facts are easily accepted if they do not conflict with our preconceived notions.

The Scotchman couldn't find his railway ticket. On the conductor's second round it was still missing.

Conductor—What's that in your mouth?
Sure enough there was the missing ticket. The conductor punched it and went his way.

Sandy (after several passengers had laughed)—Aw, well, I'm not so absent-minded. It was a very loud ticket and I was just suckin' off the date.

Of course, a country with 50,000-

The time will come inevitably, in every normal family, when some the house and pour 'em together.

Joseph Wadgano Case Ended
New York, March 2 (Special)— Judge Alfred C. Cox, sitting in United States District Court here ordered the liquor action against Joseph Wadgano of 117 North Front street, Kingston, discontinued. Wa-dgano was arrested in October, 1929, for nuisance and possession of liquor. Agents said they found 668 pints of home brew on the premises.
In view of the defendant's plea of guilty in November, 1929, to the nuisance charge, Assistant United States Attorney George R. Pann recommended to the court the drop-

Flowers and Feathers for the Neckline

(Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild)

Illustrated are little neckline details that add in luscious formal fashions with a glamorous air, and which are offered as suggestions for trimming evening gowns—attached or detachable.

The sketch at the top shows a band of large petals in blue chiffon which can be used to decorate a decollete or worn as a shoulder band.

The one at lower left reveals a garland of small petals in blue crepe satin, with a big bow at one end of the same satin. It is to be worn as sketched or closer around the neck.

The one at upper right is interesting—a bow of cultured feathers attached to discs of metal, in white with a large bow of black velvet.

Highly Polished Fabrics
and Surprising Sleeves

New York—Here is a gown sketched in Paris, where a ball was held at which all who attended were expected to wear lacquered fabrics.
One associates the term lacquer with either black or bright red, but it has no such limitations. The polished surface which gives it its name may be applied to many fabrics and to all colors. Some are more effective than others.

Some seasons it pleased us to be dull. In others we wanted to be bright and polished. This season gives us our choice. The dull fabrics are usually rough, the smooth fabrics usually very glossy.

As usual we may use the shiny and dull side of a fabric or fabrics dull and shiny together just as we are expected to go right on combining colors. It looks as though we are to juggle three instead of two colors this season. Ever so many costumes, not to mention hats, employ three distinct colors. Black, white and a color is one interpretation of this omni-present idea.

The cut-out idea is repeated many times, and this is in the way of introducing another color—by placing one over the other and cutting the top one away in some attractive design.

The sketch also shows us a petalled sleeve. The practice of introducing unexpected contrasts, even very bizarre effects, in sleeves is growing. There are lingerie sleeves galore for spring, many detachable.
There are lace sleeves and ever so many flounced ones, some earning the name of lamp shade sleeves which is really a good name for them.

That sleeves may be odd is enough thing to remember. There may be a ruche over one shoulder and not over the other. There are many surprise elements in sleeves.

Jewelry That Does Things

There seems to be much interest in jewelry of the type which serves to "do something"—that is, in jeweled fastenings and accent notes for drapes and belts. The circle motif and the ball motif, is worked out with much ingenuity in some cases.

Margy Rouff has done much in the way of fastenings and actual necklaces for her mannequins. Patou and Armande are among other houses to sponsor jeweled details.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Cire and waxed fabrics are important novelties, and the emphasis on satins is noteworthy, preasing greater importance for these materials during the forthcoming year.

There is much interest in belts, and one hears of elastic novelties of various types. Lyolene, for instance, is using knitted elastic belts, also braided string belts and metal wire.

Judge Loughran Subs for Russell

After a day in which three juries were serving at one time, the February term of Supreme Court for the Eastern district came to a close Thursday after a busy session. Commenced on February 5 by Justice Pierce H. Russell, the term was adjourned since died by Justice John T. Loughran of Kingston. Justice Russell was taken ill last week and on Thursday last the Kingston jurist came to Troy to finish out the term.

In six days Justice Loughran has presided over an exceedingly busy court, disposing of an unusually large number of cases for such a short time. In taking over the term, due to Justice Russell's temporary ill health, the Kingston jurist asked the lawyers to go along with him "in the same expeditious manner that has marked Justice Russell's term."

The bar lent its cooperation to the "best jurist" and the court commented on this in an appreciative manner in adjourning the term.

Wednesday three juries were in active service in supreme court while talesmen were waiting call to jury service in a fourth case. Both jury rooms were in use. In one 12 men were considering a verdict in an action in which Attorney Murphy, Aldrich, Guy and Broderick represented the plaintiff. In the other, a jury in the case of Daniel Crammer against Herbert M. Short and Lewis N. Jones, Jr., was closeted and out in the jury box a third jury was listening to evidence in the case of Charles Christensen against Wesley O. White.

It was well after 5 p. m. Thursday when recess was taken in the latter case and even then the court asked the attorneys involved if they did not wish to resume the trial in the evening.

"Well, tomorrow will be the last day of court," Justice Loughran reminded the lawyers, "and we will convene court at 9 a. m., an hour earlier than usual."—Troy Record.

Ways To Use Sour Milk

Scientists advise you to get plenty of milk each day. Drink a quart of it. In addition, use sour milk in recipes such as the following:

SOUP CREAM PIE
1 cup sugar
1 cup sour cream
1/2 cup raisins
3 eggs
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cornstarch

Mix sugar, cornstarch and spices, beat 1 whole egg and yolks of two eggs and add to cream. Add to sugar mixture, add raisins and cook in double boiler until thick. Pour into baked pie crust, cover with meringue made from two egg whites and two tablespoons sugar, and brown in a very slow oven. The raisins may be added whole or ground.

This series of recipes was prepared by Consumers Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

WHY

Wearing of Green Worries the Superstitious

Superstition is not exactly a sin; rather it is a lack of plain folk. Take the matter of the lady in green and her accident. How many people that day were green without any disastrous effects, and how many who were not wearing green met with accidents? It was just a coincidence in the case of this victim, and was remarked upon because of the old superstition.

It is quite probable that this superstition arose in the days when dyes were very uncertain things, and that green contained some substance harmful to certain wearers. It is not so long since certain green dyes, now discarded, were found to contain poison in a small degree.

Many superstitions started in life from some such foundation of fact. The best attitude is, therefore, to adopt them if we know there's some basis behind them—and call them common sense, leaving the name "superstition" to those which are real nonsense—and some of them are.—Answers Magazine.

Why Herrings Annually Visit North Sea Coasts

It has long been one of Nature's mysteries why vast shoals of herrings should annually visit North Sea coasts, as well as why places should also haunt this region in numbers which no amount of trawling seems capable of exhausting. It has, of course, long been known that the North Sea is a favorite spawning ground for these fish, but the why and wherefore has hitherto remained mysterious.

Where the waters of the Atlantic pass into the North Sea there is a warm tongue of water, the temperature and consequent high salinity content of which have an unfailing and irresistible attraction for these fish at spawning time. Not only so, but this high salinity, or saltness, introduces characteristic forms of plankton, the minute organisms on which all larval fish feed.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Why We Say "Vamoose"

The idea of departure has been the subject of considerable slang invention, from the old "twenty-three skidoo" to the most recent in the lexicon of the gangster, "scram!" "Vamoose" is simply a perversion of a term borrowed from another language. That is the proper Mexican word "vamos"—Spanish for "let us go."

Why 1932 Was Called Polar Year

It was known as the second international polar year because a number of countries co-operated through the year and sent expeditions to make special research in the polar regions. The first polar year was 50 years ago and proved so successful that it was decided to make a similar series of studies beginning August 1, 1932.

Why Lizards Have Two Tails

The power possessed by many lizards of growing new tails in the place of ones that have been lost is sometimes responsible for a lizard's having two tails at once, forking off at an angle from each other. In such cases the second tail is usually started as the result of a minor injury to the lizard's original tail.

Why Earth Revolves

The revolution of the earth on its axis is due to the original forces which set the earth in motion, and dates back to that remote time when the earth and the other planets were formed, probably as the result of another star passing near the sun's mass, breaking off parts of it and whirling them into space.

Why Garnets, Sardonyx Are Lined

Various superstitions attach to garnets and sardonyx. Garnets are supposed to preserve health, drive away vain thoughts, reconcile differences between friends, strengthen the heart, and increase riches and honor. Sardonyx is supposed to render its possessor virtuous, cheerful and agreeable.

Why Mausoleum Is So Called

It is named from the magnificent and stately tomb of Mausolus, King of Caria, erected by his widow, Artemisia, about 350 B. C. It was recovered by Sir Charles Newton, who brought some of the sculptures to the British museum.

Why Virginia's Capital Was Moved

The capital of Virginia was moved from Williamsburg in 1779, through the influence of Thomas Jefferson who was then governor. Richmond is more central in location and was considered less liable to capture in time of war.

Why Honey Varies in Color

The flavor and color of honey depends on the kind of flowers from which honey is gathered. Beekeepers now are making a blend of various extracted honeys, so that the product will be uniform at all times.

Why Is Bee-Line Most Direct

When one speaks of taking the most direct course, it is common to say, "I made a bee-line for home." The allusion is to going in a straight line, as bees are known to do when returning with their honey to the hive.

Why Known as "Pumps"

The origin of "pumps" as a certain type of slippers is not known for certain, but it is supposed that they were first so called because they were at first worn for pump.

Cutlery Grinding Dangerous Job

Cutlery grinding is one of our most dangerous occupations, owing to the workers breathing in so much silica dust. The mortality among grinders is 330 per cent greater than the average.

CERMAK'S RECOVERY CAN BE REASONABLY CONSIDERED

Miami, Fla., March 3. (AP)—Although "still a very sick man" the possibility of Mayor Anton Cermark's recovery from a bullet wound and resultant complications "can be reasonably considered," his physicians said today.

He passed a quiet and comfortable night and appeared stronger and improved over yesterday, the doctors said in an official bulletin at 10:55 a. m.

"He is taking more food and while he still is a very sick man the possibility of recovery can now be reasonably considered," they said.

Er. Frank Jirka, the mayor's son-in-law, said his condition appeared "the best since a week ago."

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Diet and endurance, rather than a new stroke or special stimulants, furnish the answer to Japan's swimming conquests which reached a climax in the 1932 Olympic Games, put that country ahead of the United States in men's competition for the first time and aroused an aftermath of wide discussion.

I have this conclusion from Thomas K. Cureton, Jr., director of aquatics and professor of applied physics and animal mechanics at the International Y. M. C. A. College, Springfield, Mass.

The professor does not skim the surface or deal with these things haphazardly. He comes up very decidedly with all the facts. His findings are based upon actual tests of the Olympic competitors as well as an exhaustive study of factors of training, preparation, background and mental attitude.

The Ideal Stroke

"Step watch tests show clearly that the Japanese sprinters were not superior to the American sprinters over a short distance," he writes. "The Japanese stroke, furthermore, is identical in principle with the American stroke (six-beat crawl) and there does not seem to be any justification for calling it the 'Japanese Crawl.' I tested the three fastest Japanese swimmers and found that in short sprint tests they were not any better than several of the Americans.

"The organic condition tests and the observations of their performances showed clearly that the Japanese were able to win five out of the six Olympic swimming races because of better endurance. If the Americans are to make strides as rapid as the Japanese have made in the past four years they will have to inculcate in their training program more of the factors known to build endurance.

"Tests demonstrated that the Japanese gave heart reactions superior to the American Olympic men. The Japanese seemed to have followed the basic methods which serve to build endurance, namely: very hard work, an alkaline diet and oxygen inhalations.

"It is reported that the Japanese 'moochee' food is highly alkaline after digestion. It is further reported that the average Japanese eats about four pounds of meat per year and the American about sixty. This would lead us to believe their food had something to do with the high quality of endurance which they manifested.

Repealers Smothered By Rosendale, 42-25

The fiery Morgan Repealers, endeavoring to make it three over the Rosendale Firemen out of four games, were stopped in their tracks by Johnny Regan's hose handlers from the old cement town Thursday night at White Eagle Hall before a large turnout of fans, most of whom were greatly surprised at the outcome of the tilt, a 42-25 victory for the victors.

Flashing unexpected form at the beginning, the Repealers kept up an effective attack, leading by the tally of 20-10 at half time. The firemen continued their stellar exhibition in the second and near the end of the fray left the Repealers far behind, surpassing them by 17 points at the final whistle.

Jimmy Merritt was the only Morganite able to do any real scoring, collecting 10 points. Niles and Smith, forwards, were watched closely and had to be satisfied with low tallies. Kelder, Koenig and Winkly ran wild for Rosendale, collecting high scores as indicated by the box score.

Latest News from The Baseball Front

Tampa, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Babe Ruth carried a souvenir golf ball around in his pocket today.

It was one he lammed 135 yards with a number two iron for a hole in one on the number three hole on the Pasadena course near St. Petersburg yesterday. When the ball tipped into the cup, Frank A. Wiggard, cartoonist, made a grab for it, but Babe picked it up and said, "I'll keep that ball myself."

Fail to Appear.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Joe McCarthy, pilot of the New York Yankees, is seriously considering the dispatch of a posse in search of Pitchers Vernon Gomez and Wiley Moore, both of whom are A. W. O. L. Both were reported en route to the training camp, where they were due on Wednesday, but they failed to show up.

Martin Goes to Third.

Los Angeles, March 3 (AP)—Smoker Joe Martin appeared in the New York Giants' training camp roster as an outfielder, but already Manager Bill Terry has decided he'd look better at third base.

The Winston-Salem rookie was given a thorough workout at third base and did a pretty good job.

Quinn in Condition.

Coral Gables, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Jack Quinn went to his first baseball training camp 24 years ago, but the old boy still is a handy fellow to have around.

Pitching against the Brooklyn Dodger batters yesterday, Quinn seemed to be in fine condition, much farther advanced than other members of the Dodger hurling staff.

Hurt Holds Out.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Don Hurt emphatically says he is a holdout from the Phillies, and will remain so "until the club sees my point of view."

With the signing of the last three pitchers to come to terms, Hurt was the only member of the squad here who had not yet put his name to a contract.

Grimes Was Fit.

Avellan, Calif., March 3 (AP)—Burleigh Grimes' plans for a big comeback with the Chicago Cubs this year already has received a setback. The veteran spitball pitcher, hero of the Cardinals in the 1931 world series, was in the hospital today with an attack of influenza.

Coach Kias Plans Spring Football

Coach G. Warren Kias announced Thursday that he plans to hold spring football training for the boys of last year's squad, starting sometime in the middle of the month and continuing until Easter vacation. In this way he plans to get a good idea of the material he will have to work with next fall, thereby eliminating the mystery that the fall term usually holds for football.

The boys will be given shoulder pads and shoes and perhaps an article or two more of football equipment, so that regular drills of tackling and blocking may be carried out. Kias said he will work the boys out on the new athletic field in the rear of the high school as soon as the weather conditions permit. At present the ground is partly covered with a light coating of snow and where it isn't the turf is soft and muddy. It will probably be the middle of the month before the ground is fit for cleats.

The outlook for the eleven is very favorable at present. Many of the varsity squad of last fall will again be on hand. A number are graduating but are planning to take post-graduate courses and their age and number of years of service on the Maroon squad are such that they are not ineligible.

Action Expected in Silvers-Montana
Feature at Armory

Matchmaker Doc Stader, who yesterday announced his card of bouts for the American Legion Welfare Fund in the old armory Monday night, is of the opinion that the main so will give the fans more action than any billed here for a long time, with the exception of the Paradise-Moskowitz scrap of several weeks ago.

Fighting in Monday's headliner are Tony Silvers, assisting bantamweight star, according to Doc, and Johnny Montana, "Big Boy Flash," who he says comes highly recommended from the Eddie Seaton stable in Brooklyn. If the boys live up to what Stader is broadcasting about their work in the ring should prove of Madison Square Garden variety.

Other scraps on the card for the charity affair will bring together some imported pugilistic stock with reputations that look good on paper and seven of Kingston's favorites such as Buddy Emerson, Adam Unverzach, Frankie Koutout, Joe Nagy, Ralph Brown, Kid Miller and Ken Roeve.

Reserved seats are being sold at the American Legion, "phone, 1914.

Kingston Plays
Newburgh Tonight
The Kingston High variety team this season tonight in the local gym in a game with Newburgh Free Academy. There will be a preliminary between the Kingston second team and the Newburgh second team.
The first tilt will get under way at 7:30 while the main event will start at 8:30.

It is the opinion of many that Newburgh will give the locals a close battle tonight. The Hilly City team seems to have improved. Since Every-of Kingston, who was playing varsity center, was declared ineligible
the Maroon has been slipping.

From that stage on the scoring fell on the shoulders of Captain Rhymmer and Zeeh, the two forwards, who have been playing heads up basketball throughout the season. Coach Kiss blames the absence of Every for the failure of his team to come through in many cases. Of course, after the new term began it was obvious the team was below pitch and it did not rise out of the slump for any length of time.

Was is of the opinion that Newburgh is a much improved team and that his own is not as good as in day when the Maroon played the Academy on the latter's court in a DUSO League tilt. Newburgh will all be tuned up to avenge that early season defeat.

Monticello Will Enter Sectionals
Monticello High, the DUSO League champion, will enter the sectional elimination tournament for the state championship. The first team will be Warwick, on March 17, and if the Monties are victorious they will travel to Peekskill to meet Yonkers on March 24 or 25.

If Monticello gets by Yonkers it is headed for place in the state finals.
For two seasons Kingston won the DUSO championship but was stopped by Yonkers in the sectional eliminations. On one occasion Yonkers went to Syracuse and won the state honors. Kingston was defeated twice by state champions and eliminated from the running. In the season 1928-29 Kingston went to the state finals and there clashed with Syracuse High in its first battle and was defeated. It turned out that Syracuse won the state championship.

Kingston has had as many as four tries at the state championship while this is Monticello's second. Last season the mountain team was also the DUSO champ. This season, however, Somerville, Monticello coach, is of the opinion that this year's squad far surpasses last year's. And he is expecting to go places with the boys for their record is certainly worth while framing. Out of 17 engagements one game was lost and that was to Schenectady during the winter holidays. Monticello had a total of 516 points to their opponents' 305.

Archery Tourney
At the Y. M. C. A.
The ancient sport of archery has been revived lately at the local Y.
M. C. A. under the supervision of Mr. Fuller, the Boys' Work Secretary, and a number of boys and a few men, as well, are becoming quite proficient with the bow. One of the old bowling alleys under the "Y" gym has been fitted up as an archery range and serves very well for that particular activity. Nearly every day sees either a group of beginners there getting instructions as to the proper way to shoot and use the equipment, or a more advanced group practicing for a tournament or for the time when they shall venture forth for game with only a bow and arrows instead of guns.

The interest in archery has created a desire for an archery tournament so one has been arranged for Saturday evening at 7:30. The tournament

Compare prices of a pound of package cereals, of cereals to be cooked, and of ready-to-eat cereals. Some cereals may cost fifteen times more a pound than others of similar food value.

The ordinary person needs one serving of raw vegetables every day to keep in good health. Shredded cabbage, grated carrots, tomatoes, cucumbers, celery, green and red peppers are suitable for raw vegetable salads.

Home-craft products for sale should look hand-made but not home-made; they should have the perfection of detail and construction with the personal appeal of hand work.

Make sure that all animal meat has left the carcass before starting to eat meat. A beef carcass should be at least twenty-four hours old, and a chicken about six hours old, before it is canned.

MONGOLIA GETS DE LUXE RAIL SERVICE

Express Trains Now Connect Peiping and Pootow.

Washington.—Modern Asia is the land of the paradox and China is the home of many contrasts which even the best line hunter may miss.

"At a time when foreigners are leaving the scenes of hostilities on the Sino-Japanese front north of Peiping and European mail formerly routed via the Trans-Siberian railway is taking the long sea voyage through the Suez canal because the Chinese postal administration refuses to send mail through Manchoukuo, the Chinese government railways are advertising an improved railway service, with sleeping and dining cars, over a railway line not far inside the battle front," says Dr. Raymond Owen Williams in a communication to the National Geographic society.

Lasso Ponies With Pole Nooses.

"Two express trains a week now leave Peiping and run to Pootow in Inner Mongolia. Not only does this railway, started in 1905 and engineered by a Yale graduate, connect comfortable and colorful Peiping with the Great Wall, the Ming tombs, the desert-edge city of Kalgan, highly productive mines of some of the earth's richest coal, and Fifth century Buddhist grottoes of Yun-kang, but it carries one into Inner Mongolia. In this little-known land wild game can be shot from a speeding motor car. Mongol herdsmen lasso wild ponies with all poles on long poles, and a reception for the Dalai Lama scatters rainbow fragments made of silk robes through a princely encampment, where permanent quarters are reserved for distinguished foreign guests. The Mongol chiefs prefer to live in felt yurts, or tents.

"Pootow, present terminus of the deluxe railway service, is the hopping-off place for nomad life such as the deepest recesses of the Sahara no longer offer. Dangling from a telephone post in the city where railway meets camel caravan, there may be a bandit head, between whose lips some one with a misplaced sense of humor has forced a cigarette, to indicate that even the desert is being made as secure as possible for those who seek thrills but want safety first.

"North of Pootow a fair motor trail climbs to the bleak Mongolian plateau where thousands of gazelles can be seen at once and in whose hills a wide variety of horned game awaits the hunter.

"Here are several Catholic mission stations whose main contact with the outside world comes when a party of hunters seek shelter while enjoying some of the finest, and least known, hunting in Asia.

Trans-Asiatic Expedition.

"American motor cars more or less regularly follow the Mongolian trails and although communication with Unga, because of political conditions, is less common than formerly, there are a score of interesting regions within easy reach of Pootow or Kalgan.

"The Citroen-Baard Trans-Asiatic expedition on its way from Pootow to Kalgan, looped north through Inner Mongolia, visited the Lamaserie at Pellingmao and Sharamuren and passed Chinese New Year's day as guests of Prince Hsi San Nying at his desert 'camp' before descending on Kalgan over a much-improved trail.

The road from here to Peiping, by way of the famous Nankow Pass, pierces the Great Wall at one of its most picturesque spots and has been much improved within recent months.

"Near the Mongolian threshold to Peiping is a hitherto inaccessible region now open to the adventurous motorist. The tourist who seeks unusual experiences can spend a week in surroundings unknown to all but a few, but well worthy of study. No early Buddhist grottoes in Asia are as accessible as those of Yun-kang, near which now pass sleeping and dining cars from whose luxury only a few hardy travelers will absent themselves, however much Buddhist carvings enliven old grottoes or Mongol tribesmen scatter golden, purple or red robes across the barren plateau so familiar to the herds of Genghis Khan.

"By sleeping car to the Middle Ages is true enough, but the frontier of romance is beyond the sleeping car, where the true lover of the desert can sleep on the wind-swept plateau undisturbed by an American-born iron horse."

Most of the aliens are Cuban political refugees, it was said, but some were Poles, Russians, and Turks, all bound for the United States.

PILES

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

If you think a surgical operation is the only way to get rid of itching, bleeding or protruding Piles, it's because you haven't heard of the harmless internal medicine discovered by a prominent western physician.

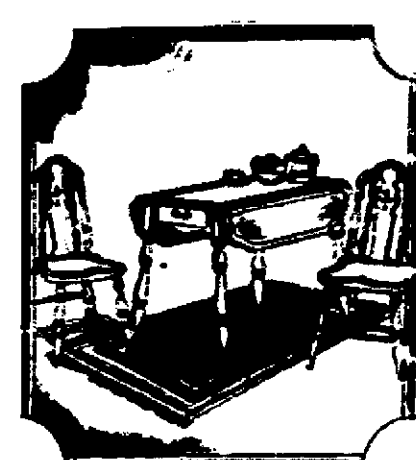

After years of study, Dr. J. S. Leonard found the cause of Piles to be internal congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the hemorrhoidal veins sabby; the bowel walls weak; the parts almost dead. Right away the doctor set to work to find a real internal remedy. He succeeded, and after prescribing it for 1000 patients, with success in over 900 cases, he named his prescription HEM-ROID.

The doctor wants every Pile sufferer to benefit by his discovery, and so there will be no doubting or delay. McBride Drug Stores and druggists everywhere are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee money back if it does not end Piles in any form.

So why waste time on external treatments or think of an operation when HEM-ROID tablets are guaranteed.
